

Call for F-Word Submissions

About the F-Word

The F-Word is a bilingual publication written, edited, and produced by young women who work and volunteer at the Canadian Research Institute for the Advancement of Women (CRIA W). The F-Word is comprised of feminist articles, analyses, reviews, personal stories, poetry, photography, and art submissions from young women from across the country. This publication's goal is to serve as a platform to give young women an opportunity to express their thoughts, visions and priorities regarding women's equality in Canada and elsewhere.

We are now accepting submissions for our Spring 2024 issue.

What's on your mind? What does resistance and empowerment mean to you as a feminist? Are there voices and stories that you think deserve recognition and a platform? How are the local lived realities of women shaped by global histories, frameworks, and forces? Is there a social issue you're passionate about? Share your thoughts, writing, artwork or photos with us today and get published in our upcoming edition!

Who can contribute?

This call is open to young women between the ages of 15 and 35. We accept contributions – be it analyses, articles, stories, poems, art, or photography – from young women in Canada and around the world.
